

Gall Boys return to rough

AFTER a two-year break from the cameras, the Gall Boys have again hit the road to film their latest adventure.

The Gall Boys are from Kedron Caravans in Brisbane and take their caravans with them – no matter how punishing the terrain.

This is their 10th year – and eighth video production – documenting what the remote north offers the traveller.

Their latest adventure takes them around the Gulf to Darwin, Arnhem Land, Daly River, the Kimberley, Home Valley Station, Kalumburu, down the Canning Stock Route, across the Gary Junction to Alice Springs and Plenty Highway home.

It includes some great footage of a mullet spawn through waiting saltwater crocodiles, barramundi fishing and a good blend of four-wheel-driving on remote tracks to out-of-the-way destinations and points of interest, such as the Kalumburu Museum.

Tense situations, natural beauty and some light-hearted practical jokes and bloopers provide plenty of variety and entertainment.

The video will be available from March.

For more information, visit www.thegallboys.com.

ADVENTURE: Navigating the Ord River, near Kununurra (above); and (from far left) on the Canning Stock Route; a saltwater crocodile and his catch; help is at hand.

Regards,
Glen.